

Dear Members,

You are cordially invited to attend the first SAAFoST Executive Breakfast lecture of 2014. It will be held on 20 June at the Country Club Johannesburg, Woodmead. The Speaker is Dr Anne Constable, Senior Food Safety Scientist, Nestlé Research Centre, Switzerland.

The purpose of Executive Breakfasts is to encourage colleagues in the business and commercial side of the food sector, to attend food science presentations on topics that they should be familiar with and that may have a direct impact on, and relevance to, business in the food industry. This presentation is no exception focusing, as it does, on food ingredients and consumer safety, so invite your inquiry-minded business colleagues in large numbers and get them to enjoy a pre-traffic, hot, early-morning breakfast, a world class presentation and the fine company of Members the Association for food science professionals in South Africa.

Please register immediately if you are interested as time is limited!

Thanks to Prof Lucia Anelich of ILSI SA for making Dr Constable available. Details on guest speaker, presentation, programme, venue, cost, registration and payment procedure, follow below. With kind regards,

SAAFoST Executive Breakfast Lecture:

Title: Development of Natural and Beneficial Food Ingredients with Focus on Consumer Safety
The growing interest, by both consumers and industry, for the development of food products with 'functional' properties, whether from cereals, fruits and vegetables or herbals, has food safety implications. Strategies to address these will be discussed

Speaker: Dr Anne Constable. Nestlé, Switzerland
Anne Constable is currently a Senior Scientist and Manager of safety evaluations within the Chemical Food Safety team in the Quality and Safety department which provides scientific support and risk assessments of chemicals and ingredients for new and existing food products to Nestlé R&D communities and to quality management. She studied at Liverpool and Manchester Universities, did a spell at the European Molecular Biology Laboratories in Heidelberg, Germany and joined Nestlé in 1992. Anne chaired the ILSI Europe Novel Foods Task Force from 2003 to 2010, and has contributed to several ILSI activities in the area of novel food safety and chemical risk assessments.
